[CONCLUDED.]

I have reasons to believe, that most of the land titles here, will be confirmed by Congress. It is the object of an equitable and enlightened government rather to confult the happiness of the citizen in deciding upon his claims, than to acquire MR. EDITOR; large portions of public lands, by oppressive laws, or rigid adjudications. In this case, the purchaser oblige will, in most cases, be fure of procuring a fee simple estate. It is true, that there will cases present themselves, where, from the incautious method of laying out lands under the Spanish government, some interferences will be discovered. These will be subject to the controul of our common courts of judicature. The mode of adjustment, however, under our laws, will be fo very fimple, that none of those long and ru inous litigations, with respect to real property, in many parts of the

The paper of the torged notes, is of a meaner quality, the impression much fainter, and the engraving executed in a more bungling manner than the genuine notes, though the fignatures appear to be well executed.

There was no doubt in the minds prefent at the trial, that the prisoner was guilty; but the jury, going upon the principle, that crimes punishable with imprisonment for life, require absolute and positive proof, found him not guilty. As, however, it was univerfally acknowledged that the notes found upon this fellow were forged, and as it is highly probable that many others of the fame kind are in circulation, it will be incumbent on the public to be cautious .- (Canondaigua Repos.)

TO THE PUBLIC IN GENERAL

Elegance combined with Utility, in Willis's New Fashioned SHOES.

In ancient times the baids foretold, The rhyming trade would ne'er grow old-I'is true in these more modern times, Mechanics manufacture rymes; Murphy and Shaw have try'd their part To imitate the rhyming art, And Willis in these rhyming times Must furely weave a web of rhymes. Ladies here I beg to mention, Claimants of his first attention) Hand'ome shoes in every part, Is Willis's master piece of art---He shoes does make, which Queens might

The neatly plain, the brilliant spangle Improves new fallions as they rife.
And makes fome spangled shoes with ties.
Costack boots, and fair tops too,
Made neater here than any shoe, All forts and fizes well afforted,

Made ofleather, the best imported. And now to tell you where he lives, And strict attention there he gives, To orders fent both far and near, He'll fit you well you need not fear: Main-street, next door to neighbor Noe Those who know this, possesses a jewel But not to make description fainter,
